Information Model for Disassembly for Reuse, Recycle and Remanufacturing U.s. Department of Commerce. 2014-03-04 Disassembly process is an essential activity in the mid and end of a product's service life cycle. Maintenance is a mid product life activity, which involves disassembly, cleaning, repair, replace, inspection, and reassembly. Remanufacture, reuse, and recycle are activities at the end of a product's service life. The main purpose of performing these activities is to increase sustainability, which includes reduce environmental impact, increase economic, and extend societal benefits to meet the goal of sustainable development. This report describes a developed disassembly information model. It is an integrated information model with the following key components: feature, tolerance, workpiece, material content, equipment, and process. The model supports the modeling of disassembly features, sequence, operations, decision making, and workflow. Case study using real products and their specific disassembly processes is provided to verify the developed model.

The Cost of Noise Reduction in Commercial Tilt Rotor Aircraft Henry B. Faulkner. 1974 The relationship between direct operating cost and departure noise annoyance was developed for commercial tilt rotor aircraft. This was accomplished by generating a series of tilt rotor aircraft designs to meet various noise goals at minimum DOC. These vehicles were spaced across the spectrum of possible noise levels from completely unconstrained to the quietest vehicle that could be designed within the study ground rules. A group of optimization parameters were varied to find the minimum DOC while other inputs were held constant and some external constraints were met. This basic variation was then extended to different aircraft sizes and technology time frames. It was concluded that reducing noise annoyance by designing for lower rotor tip speeds is a very promising avenue for future research and development. It appears that the cost of halving the annoyance compared to an unconstrained design is insignificant and the cost of halving the annoyance again is small.
