Reading Fluency Timothy Rasinski, William Rupley, David Paige, Chase Young. 2021-01-21 Reading fluency has been identified as a key component of proficient reading. Research has consistently demonstrated significant and substantial correlations between reading fluency and overall reading achievement. Despite the great potential for fluency to have a significant outcome on students' reading achievement, it continues to be not well understood by teachers, school administrators and policy makers. The chapters in this volume examine reading fluency from a variety of perspectives. The initial chapter sketches the history of fluency as a literacy instruction component. Following chapters examine recent studies and approaches to reading fluency, followed by chapters that explore actual fluency instruction models and the impact of fluency instruction. Assessment of reading fluency is critical for monitoring progress and identifying students in need of intervention. Two articles on assessment, one focused on word recognition and the other on prosody, expand our understanding of fluency measurement. Finally, a study from Turkey explores the relationship of various reading competencies, including fluency, in an integrated model of reading. Our hope for this volume is that it may spark a renewed interest in research into reading fluency and fluency instruction and move toward making fluency instruction an even more integral part of all literacy instruction.

Running Records for Classroom Teachers, Second Edition Marie Clay. 2017-08-08 Running Records for Classroom Teachers explains how to accurately record what children say and do as they read any book, and how teachers can score and interpret these records. When these standard recording and score procedures are used, Running Records provide accurate and reliable assessments of children's reading. Classroom teachers use records of text reading to check how well a text is matched to a child's reading, monitor the progress children are making, and compare and group students in their class. Running Records have been found to be good text reading assessments in many research studies. They provide different information from that obtained from tests of letters, sounds and words in isolation. Teachers find that close observation and recording of students' behaviour informs their understanding of how young children learn to read and allows them to provide appropriate learning opportunities.--Cover.
