The Hidden Among the Hidden Helen K. Black, John T. Groce, Charles E. Harmon.2017-05-02 The growing number of elder men providing hands-on care to loved ones, particularly spouses, undeniably represents a hidden segment of the home care population. With that in consideration, caregiving in communities of color, in particular, is increasing while numbers of informal (unpaid) caregivers are projected to triple by 2030. Despite statistics, studies on African-American men who care for other elders (such as spouses and parents) -- indeed, the hidden among the hidden -- are negligible. This text follows a study conducted by Helen Black, a research scientist focusing on aging, alongside John Groce and Charles Harmon, founders of Mature Africans Learning from Each Other (M.A.L.E.), in which they interviewed elderly African-American men in caregiver roles. As a whole, The Hidden Among the Hidden is unique in its study of caregiving in the areas of subject matter, methodology, and presentation of findings. The men whose attitudes and behaviors toward caregiving are recorded in this book share a wealth of knowledge for other caregivers, gerontologists, healthcare professionals, students, and the community in general.

Profiles in Caregiving Carol S. Aneshensel, Leonard I. Pearlin, Joseph T. Mullan, Steven H. Zarit, Carol J. Whitlatch.1995-09-15 Given medical advances and greater understanding of healthful living habits, people are living longer lives. Proportionally speaking, a greater percentage of the population is elderly. Despite medical advances, there is still no cure for dementia, and as elderly individuals succumb to Alzheimer's Disease or related dementia, more and more people are having to care their elderly parents and /or siblings. Profiles in Caregiving is practical source of information for anyone who teaches caregiving, acts as a caregiver, or studies caregiving. This book discusses recent research on stress factors associated with caregiving, and what factors impact on successful versus non-successful adaptation to the care-giving role. This is an expanding field in gerontology, and is also of interest to personality and social psychologists studying stress and interpersonal relations. Although there are many books on the cause and treatment of dementia, there has been a book that provides a research investigation into the factors associated with effective caregiving to dementia patients. Conceptualizes caregiving as a multistage career whose impact on the caregiver continues to be felt after in-home care has ceased Based upon a longitudinal survey of a demographically diverse sample of principal caregivers over a three-year period Identifies caregivers who are most at-risk for adverse adaptation to the role Describes preventative and clinical intervention strategies Identifies post-care risk and issues Identifies antecedents to successful adaptation State of the art analytic techniques Graphic presentation of empirical findings Renowned multidisciplinary research team

Who Cares: A Loving Guide for Caregivers; Providing Future Caregivers the Most Important Facts about My Life Dee Marrella.2002-03 Every day a loved one or close friend enters the world of the caregiver. One day that person could be you. People who were once vital and able to do all things for themselves find that they can no longer complete activities that were once considered routine. For many, this means entering a nursing home or some other type of assisted living facility. Others will be cared for in more familiar surroundings, such as their own home. Either way, people known as caregivers will now be responsible for taking care of virtually every aspect of daily life. Now each of us has the opportunity to provide our own future caregivers with critical data and information about us, so that when the day comes that we are incapacitated, these caregivers will know us as well as anyone could. Set up in a diary format, anyone can put down in writing all of the vital information that could mean the difference between working with loving and knowledgeable care givers or being shut away and languishing in the hands of strangers. This guide will enable each of us to provide a insider's look at who we are and tell our future caregivers what they will need to know in order to provide us with the best care possible.

Care Giving from the Heart Kenneth Mwirichia.2008-10 The vision behind this book I was inspired to write this book because of the great need in the long-term care industry to blend love, compassion, and respect when caring for residents. The spirit of love and compassion for the work we do and those we care for is vital in long-term care. This sense of caring and concern for residents can never be replaced by advancements in modern technology. Rather it is provided one-on-one, one person at a time. This book will help readers at several levels. It will help you understand the basics of long-term care giving, and will also help you assess whether you have the heart and temperament for care giving. Written in non-technical terms, the book is easy to understand even if you have no experience in care giving. In the text Ive combined my personal experiences with the realities of care giving, and even a bit of humor, while covering standard procedures in the long-term care setting. At its heart this book focuses on the basics of personal, hands-on care for those who need it most. The book was written in the spirit of love, respect, humility, and compassion. For that is where it all began, with the mother of nursing, Florence Nightingale, who demonstrated care giving from the heart.

Caregiving Cindy Laverty.2010 The Cindy Laverty Show is dedicated to her philosophy that in order to have a functional society, we need to learn how to better care for ourselves so we can care for others. Today, as a professional caregiver, expert spokesperson for the industry and a media personality, Laverty has committed herself to re-educating the population on the necessity to live a life rooted in care. Her purpose is to make the care giving process less stressful for everyone involved. Americans need to wake up to the fact that we are all caregivers for each other, and that is a good thing. Caregiving - Eldercare Made Clear & Simple embodies her passion for the importance and value of caregiving, while providing the reader with a clear roadmap to help you navigate your own journey.

Letters From Madelyn Elaine K. Sanchez.2016-05-17 Madelyn Kubin was a 70-year-old Kansas farm wife. She appeared to be fragile because of her thinning white hair, macular degeneration, osteoporosis, congestive heart failure, and severe hearing loss. But when her husband Quentin suffered a debilitating stroke, she was forced to summon all of her physical, emotional, and spiritual strengths in order to care for him at home. Madelyn managed her isolation, loneliness, and stress by going to her computer, disengaging her emotional monitor, and writing letters to her daughter Elaine. Madelyn's story of faith, courage, and love is told through her unflinchingly honest and surprisingly funny letters written in real time over the course of six-and-a-half years. Although she prayed every day that she would be a willing channel for God's love and compassion, there were plenty of days she felt like telling God to go find himself another servant. Madelyn wrote unabashedly about her anger, guilt, depression, and grief. When Quentin displayed dementia-related inappropriate sexual behavior, Madelyn eventually learned how to handle it with grace and humor. She was an example of how it is possible, even in the very worst end-of-life situations, to experience mental and spiritual growth.

Letters to My Aunt Penny Albright Petersen.2004-05 AN ALZHEIMER'S CHRONICLE: LETTERS TO MY AUNT describes the relationship of a daughter/caregiver & her mother, a victim of Alzheimer's Disease. It begins with their struggle for diagnosis & uses anecdotes, description & conversation to lead readers through the frightening & sometimes humorous progression of Alzheimer's. The experiences are captured in letters written to the sister of the victim. The sisters worked together daily for nearly 20 years in Florida. When the older showed signs of Dementia, she moved to Arizona to be near her daughter & grandchildren. The daughter wrote weekly letters to her aunt describing her mother's physical & mental deterioration as well as changes in the mother/daughter relationship. Difficult decisions like home care, assisted living or nursing home placement & financial planning -- were shared by daughter & aunt. As Alzheimer's took its toll, the mother thought the daughter was her sister. What started as two sisters being torn apart geographically by Alzheimer's Disease led to a mother & daughter finding a love they never had, & daughter & aunt becoming close friends. Helping Yourself Help Others Rosalynn Carter, Susan K. Golant.2013-10-01 The chances are good that every one of us will become a caregiver at some point in our lives. We come to this challenge in the most personal way possible—we want to help someone we love, but we don't know how, and we're afraid of losing ourselves in this daunting task. If you have picked up this book, you are probably a caring person. You may prove that every day by helping someone who is elderly or developmentally disabled or who suffers from a physical or mental illness. It helps to know that Rosalynn Carter, former First Lady and a director of the Rosalynn Carter Institute for Human Development, which is committed to studying caregiving issues, knows firsthand the challenges of this labor of love. From her own personal experience as a caregiver for her father and grandfather and from that of hundreds of caregivers she has encountered before, during, and since her years in the White House, Mrs. Carter knows that caregiving can be rewarding, but also lonely, stressful, confusing, and frustrating. In Helping Yourself Help Others, Mrs. Carter writes, "Caregivers give so much of themselves and sometimes receive very little in return. The purpose of this book is to encourage you, to empathize with you, and to advocate for your special needs. I hope it will help you have an easier and more enjoyable life." Mrs. Carter addresses the issues most caregivers face. How do you avoid burnout—the sense of feeling completely overwhelmed and unrewarded? How do you balance your responsibilities as a caregiver with the rest of your life? How can you enlist the aid of other family members? How can you educate yourself about your loved one's condition and work more effectively with the health care team? When is an institution the right choice for your loved one? How can you access helpful associations, literature and government aid? (A helpful appendix lists hundreds of resources.) Helping Yourself Help Others is a rare combination of a warmly personal account of caregiving and a reassuring, clear-eyed guidebook that offers practical solutions to caregiver's typical problems. Filled with empathy, this sensitive, encouraging guide will help you meet a difficult challenge head-on and find fulfillment and empowerment in your caregiving role.

Parent Like It Matters Janice Johnson Dias, PhD.2022-02-08 An accessible blueprint to embolden our daughters to be critical thinkers, fearless doers, and joyful change agents for our future—from the proud mother of teen activist Marley Dias, founder of 1000BLACKGIRLBOOKS. "A powerful resource for caregivers trying to raise courageous girls . . . It's my go-to and my how-to."—Kwame Alexander, New York Times bestselling author of Light for the World to See Renowned sociologist Dr. Janice Johnson Dias has devoted her life to nurturing and training girls to become change-makers—whether through her investment in her daughter Marley's humanitarian projects or through her work with the GrassROOTS Community Foundation's "SuperCamp." In these unprecedented times, her work has never been more urgent, as parents find themselves asking: How do we teach our children to change the world? Dr. Johnson Dias knows that self-realized girls are created through intentional parenting. And so she asks parents to make deliberate choices—from babyhood through adolescence—that will give their girls the resources and foundation to take hold of their own futures and to create sustainable social change. Unlike other parenting experts, Dr. Johnson Dias doesn't urge parents to focus solely on their children. Instead, she tasks them with a personal challenge: to find their own joy. Just as Dr. Johnson Dias brings her own jubilant passion to parenting, mentoring, and teaching, she inspires caregivers to do the same. Using cutting-edge research and Dr. Johnson Dias's own experiences, Parent Like It Matters offers information and strategies for making discussions of racism and sexism a daily practice, identifying heroes and mentors, educating yourselves together, and uncovering your girl's passions and what issues drive her the most. Parenting is enormous work; it can be as overwhelming as it is fulfilling. Within the pages of Parent Like It Matters, parents will find the invaluable tools they need to raise resilient, optimistic girls who determine for themselves what their world will look like.

Caregiving Daughters Rick Briggs.2014-02-25 First published in 1998. It is likely that as long as dementia has been in existence, caregivers of cognitively-impaired individuals have supported them. Today's caregivers, however, are different in some ways from their predecessors. Their numbers are greater, the environment for care and competing demands are different, and the role is longer in duration. These pioneering caregivers are the focus of this book. They need help and support. A starting place is to learn as much as possible about them and their role.

Caregiving Victoria Bumagin, MSSW, Kathryn Hirn, MA.2006-05-03 Chock-full of descriptive case examples, this clearly written text is a must-read for social workers, nurses, and gerontologists. By focusing on the various facets of the caregiving experience--from the caregiver's perspective to those who receive care--the authors sensitize you to the ways in which caregiving is affected by the conditions, personalities, capabilities, and wishes of both the caregivers and the care recipients. Chapters explore the range of care receivers from frail elderly to young children, and the difference in caregiving styles and options. Also addressed are issues related to resistance to care, claims of self-determination, and necessity of intervention.
