Les Molosses de Samaria Nigel Patten.2013-11 Peu avant la Deuxieme Guerre Mondiale, Georges reve regulierement d'une jeune fille, qui ressemble beaucoup a une danseuse dans un temple minoen. D'origine grecque, Georges est envoye en Crete apres l'occupation allemande pour organiser la resistance dans les Montagnes Blanches. Il commence a avoir des hallucinations de la meme jeune fille. Il est attire dans une situation imaginaire ou il s'identifie avec la victime d'un sacrifice humain il y a 3600 ans. La jeune fille fut a l'epoque la pretresse du temple, detruit plus tard par un tremblement de terre. Georges n'est sauve d'une deuxieme mort suicidaire que par une nouvelle destruction du temple, cette fois sous les bombes allemandes. About the Author De nationalite suisse et britannique, Nigel Patten est ne en 1940 pres de Londres et habite depuis 50 ans en Suisse. Il enseigne toujours l'anglais dans un lycee alpin renomme pas loin de Montreux. Il connait bien la Crete, ayant passe plusieurs etes dans la region des Gorges de Samaria. Il a publie cinq livres avec SBPRA, dont deux sont disponible en francais. La version anglais DES MOLOSSES DE SAMARIA a gagne un prix litteraire en 2011. Word of Honor Kristen Brooke Neuschel.1989 In this boldly innovative synthesis of political history and interdisciplinary social history, Kristen B. Neuschel revises our understanding of politics in early modern Europe. Drawing on the methods of the linguist and the ethnographer, Neuschel shows that early modern nobles must, like the common people of that period, be approached as having a mentalit very different from our own. In particular, she argues that the world view of these nobles was shaped by their still largely oral culture, and that historians must take this into account if they are to understand, for example, the nobles' volatile loyalties and their close attention to seemingly trivial moments of insult and self-aggrandizement.

L'économie dans sa maison Marcel Aucoin.2019-12-15T00:00:00+01:00 Le titre — L'économie dans sa maison — fait écho au livre de Xénophon, l'Économique, centré sur la relation d'une maison avec son environnement plutôt que sur les échanges. Il fait aussi référence à une question de Socrate : Qu'est-ce qu'une maison ? . C'est en nous efforçant d'explorer ces relations et ces questions, dans les conditions de notre temps, que nous avons conclu que l'économie est dans sa maison — et cela change tout. En effet, cela nous conduit établir une fondation — nouvelle, mais greffée sur d'anciennes racines — pour la science économique. En intégrant dans notre théorie l'environnement imprévisible, nous fournissons aux économistes un cadre pour aborder les multiples problèmes qui se posent, non seulement à notre maison commune : la Terre, mais aussi à toutes les autres maisons. Notre modèle est fondé sur l'hypothèse du caractère aléatoire de l'économie, ce qui nous rapproche de la physique moderne et de ses méthodes. Sur ces piliers, notre modèle fait abstraction des agents économiques et concentre l'attention sur les constituants interconnectés de la maison et sur leurs relations statistiques mutuelles (positives et négatives), et sur celles qu'elles ont avec l'environnement. La matrice de covariance qui retrace ces relations indique comment l'environnement perturbe, en moyenne, chaque constituant pendant une période. Cela donne la possibilité d'explorer les destinées des maisons dans le court, moyen et long terme, à travers les crises, et les perspectives changeantes de ruine. On dégage trois variables essentielles : le facteur et l'énergie de croissance, ainsi que la racine des prix, qui est aussi le poids de l'unité de compte et un coefficient anti-ruine. L'une des caractéristiques des maisons modernes est que, chez elles, entre leurs constituants, les covariances positives l'emportent sur les covariances négatives. D'où leur croissance : on explore ses liens avec la réduction des inégalités ainsi que ses pathologies : la pollution et l'épuisement des ressources. Nous montrons comment lutter contre les crises et les inégalités par une plus grande solidarité. On montre que toute maison peut être modélisée par une maison miniature — son âme — à deux constituants, (le foyer et le toit), et trois paramètres directeurs : l'exposition aux aléas, la sécurité et la performance. Avec ces guides, on exprime toutes les variables macroéconomiques relatives à une maison. Celles-ci sont conservées en passant d'une maison — quelle que soit sa taille — à son âme. La voie ouverte doit permettre aux économistes d'aller plus loin et en sécurité dans leurs travaux tout en permettant à un plus large public de mieux comprendre ce que c'est que l'économie.

Vera's Room Maria Chevksa,Tony Godfrey,Hélène Cixous.2005 Vera's Room is the first monograph on the artist Maria Chevksa. Most celebrated for her evocative, almost edible, treatment of language in her paintings, Chevksa explores the rich historical relationship between art and words. Her early work featured fictional extracts from Beckett, Kafka, and Raymond Carver poured onto the canvas in gestures echoing those of Jackson Pollock. More recently Chevksa has incorporated new methods of working including sculpture and complex installation. The book also contains Chevksa's latest project, the eponymous Vera's Room. This takes the exclusive shape of a scratch book printed on newsprint and forms the central piece of the book. It is a visual as well as textual collage where the artist and her alter ego, Vera Kasmiach, take a journey through film stills, press cuttings, found photographs and other ephemera. Vera's Room traces and documents Chevksa's rich and complex work through texts and illustrations. Two specially commissioned essays provide an art historical and philosophical context to the work, while the lavishly illustrated art work section offers an exciting overview of Chevksa's oeuvre to date. 130 colour & b/w illustrations Vivantes Marie-Haude Mériquet.2022-04-01 En 1996, Nicolette est envoyée en Italie pour s'occuper des deux garçons d'une famille franco-italienne. Pour l'étudiante avide de voyage et d'émancipation, cette immersion dans les paysages grandioses des Dolomites est le début de l'aventure. Là-bas, elle rencontre Faustine, une jeune fille aussi solaire que brillante, aussi belle que mystérieuse. Leur entente est évidente. Leur amitié, immédiate. Ensemble elles traversent un concentré de vie absolu, où la liberté s'impatiente, où les extrêmes se côtoient. Vingt et un ans plus tard, un rendez-vous étonnant replonge Nicolette dans cet été magnifique et terrible. Qu'est-ce qu'être vivante ? Dans son souvenir intact, Nicolette retrouve les réponses qui, à l'époque, ont changé le cours de sa vie. Sous le soleil brûlant de l'Italie des montagnes, ce roman raconte combien une rencontre, aussi courte soit-elle, a le pouvoir de nous changer. Il raconte comment l'amour nous fait devenir.

Maisons vivantes Véronique Willemin.2006 Face à la standardisation de la construction courante qui tend de plus en plus à se généraliser, sont apparues de nombreuses propositions individuelles - et non institutionnelles - pour un habitat autre, différent, vivant, plus respectueux de l'homme et de la nature. Et pourtant, les règles draconiennes imposées en France aux habitations familiales tendent à asphyxier dans l'œuf, toute innovation et toute synergie entre le site choisi, le concept architectural et bioclimatique, la réalisation technique et économique, et les projets de vie des futurs habitants. Des années 1950 à nos jours, Maisons vivantes, livre-manifeste, présente les idées, les projets, les réalisations d'hommes et de femmes de nationalités différentes, architectes, artistes, autoconstructeurs, qui ont choisi délibérément de révéler et de vivre leurs rêves, leurs valeurs, leurs interrogations en les concrétisant dans des espaces d'habitation. Ces créateurs - Hundertwasser, Guy Rottier, Antti Lovag, James Wines, Zaha Hadid, François Roche, Coop. Himmelb(l)au, UN Studio... - parcourent le vaste champ des pratiques prospectives, mais montrent également combien, à l'inverse de leurs sœurs du passé, ces utopies sont tout à fait réalisables. Qu'elles soient nichées dans les arbres, creusées dans la roche, qu'elles vivent au rythme des saisons ou grandissent avec les familles qui les occupent, ces maisons vivantes inventent un mode de vivre et habiter autrement.

Notre-Dame of Amiens Stephen Murray.2020-12-22 Notre-Dame of Amiens is one of the great Gothic cathedrals. Its construction began in 1220, and artistic production in the Gothic mode lasted well into the sixteenth century. In this magisterial chronicle, Stephen Murray invites readers to see the cathedral as more than just a thing of the past: it is a living document of medieval Christian society that endures in our own time. Murray tells the cathedral's story from the overlapping perspectives of the social groups connected to it, exploring the ways that the layfolk who visit the cathedral occasionally, the clergy who use it daily, and the artisans who created it have interacted with the building over the centuries. He considers the cycles of human activity around the cathedral and shows how groups of makers and users have been inextricably intertwined in collaboration and, occasionally, conflict. The book travels around and through the spaces of the cathedral, allowing us to re-create similar passages by our medieval predecessors. Murray reveals the many worlds of the cathedral and brings them together in the architectural triumph of its central space. A beautifully illustrated account of a grand, historically and religiously important building from a variety of perspectives and in a variety of time periods, this book offers readers a memorable tour of Notre-Dame of Amiens that celebrates the cathedral's eight hundredth anniversary. Notre-Dame of Amiens is enhanced by high-resolution images, liturgical music, and animations embedded in an innovative website.

Reclaiming and Rewilding River Cities for Outdoor Recreation Charly Machemehl,Olivier Sirost,Jean-Paul Ducrotoy.2020-08-31 The introduction of sports and recreational facilities into natural environments calls for reflection on their impact on fragile ecosystems. This book is unique in providing an interdisciplinary approach to the ecological restoration of urban and industrial degraded habitats and their use by nearby city-dwellers. For the first time ecologists, sociologists and anthropologists have worked together on particularly sensitive ecosystems such as rivers and estuaries to propose recovery strategies that allow their basic ecological functions to be restored, and which can benefit local populations through nature activities. Nonetheless, the use of natural spaces calls for the building of sustainable towns. This is why this book is distinctive in considering quality of life and well-being as stated objectives of modern river towns. Recently, leisure time has become a part of urban rhythms. In order to favour personal development, an extensive palette of leisure activities is considered by the authors: bird watching entertainment sports culture Many aspects including physical and psychological attributes in relation to the contemporary socio-political fabric are dealt with. While creating areas of freedom, landscaping also induces certain forms of practice and encourages certain social skills. Conversely, the book questions certain types of management based on mass consumption. Don't they, in the end, aim to satisfy needs that are impermanent and shallow? The image of the contemporary town relies on urban planning projects which, in a global economy, seek to capture the interest of tourists and local populations. How can suitable, diligent planning be successfully combined with both creative design and ecological care? This book demonstrates how biology and sociology can (and should) work in harmony in order to promote an ecosystem approach to environmental management.
