La Provence Christian Freigang, Rolf Toman, Achim Bednorz. 1999 La Provence, éternelle province où la vie s'écoule comme aux origines. Tel est le mythe qui entoure ce pays depuis près de trois mille ans. Les Grecs y fondent des colonies, les Romains leur première province en Gaule, et le Moyen Age scelle son union avec la couronne de France. Dès le XVIIIe siècle, la Provence est un lieu de villégiature. Elle attire par son extraordinaire diversité : plages, sommets alpins et de moyenne montagne, monuments antiques, églises et monastères romans, musées d'Art moderne, corridas et festivals d'été. Une richesse qui explique le caractère fascinant de cette région. Consacré à l'architecture, à l'art et aux paysages de la Provence, cet ouvrage en fait découvrir les trésors dans toute leur variété. Une invitation au voyage culturel, qu'il soit réel ou imaginaire. Chaque chapitre présente une région et un itinéraire, situés par une carte et traités d'un point de vue historique et artistique. Utilisable comme guide touristique, ce livre reste avant tout un magnifique album. L'itinéraire proposé nous conduit tout d'abord de l'art de triomphe d'Orange au palais des Papes d'Avignon, en passant par le mont Ventoux. Suivent un détour par Nîmes et le pont du Gard et une étape dans les grandes villes, Aix-en-Provence, l'universitaire, et Marseille, la métropole. Le chemin se poursuit vers l'est, vers la frontière avec l'Italie, le long du littoral, avec ses plages, ses îles paradisiaques et les prestigieuses demeures Art nouveau du front de mer. L'arrière-pays cannois, niçois ou monégasque dévoile, au sommet de pentes escarpées, les Alpes et leurs contreforts, paysages majestueux et écrin des gorges du Verdon.

How Paintings Come Alive Through Landscapes Cristina Avramovici. 2010-08 An exploration of the world of art and landscape. In the following two parts, the research and the design process I tried to present my experience in landscape architecture in relation with art, and mainly paintings. The relation between the two is underlined and the idea that landscape can be beautified by not only through the color and texture of the vegetation, but by intricate painting compositions, is the goal of this project. The first part the research is a journey through art and landscape history from the beginning of documented time. The last part the design process is the actual product of the research. I took as inspiration for the design of a small community park the art of three artists in order to create three different designs of the same plan, each design representing a different artist and its art. In order to do so they are divided in three periods: the past (Botticelli, whose art is forever linked with Renaissance), present (Hundertwasser, a 20th century Viennese artist whose impressive art has taken different levels) and future (my art, first an artist, my trying to be some day a complete artist).

An essay on the emergence of the Fauve landscape is followed by four essays devoted to individual sites and such topics as Fauvism's impact on tourism and politics. Another essay concentrates on the critical landscape, in essence the critics' reception of these paintings. Matisse, Braque, Derain, Vlaminck, Dufy, Marquet, Manguin and Friesz are represented with examples of their works.

Initiatrice de réformes monacales et centre de pouvoir politique des ducs de Valois, la Bourgogne a connu au Moyen Age une floraison des arts sans pareille, dont témoigne encore de nos jours une profusion de chefs-d'œuvre artistiques et architecturaux. Bourgogne fait revivre un passé riche d'histoire, en entraînant le lecteur dans un fascinant circuit-découverte.

Art Intervention in the City Hadas Ophrat. 2022-10-26 This book focuses on the phenomenon of art intervention—an expression of local initiatives by artists, collectives, and art centers wishing to influence the design of the space or make a change in its lifestyle. It pertains not only to acts of protest, but also to the creation of a new civil and political situation in which artists acknowledge their ability to constitute foci of power. These are reflected in acts such as squatting in abandoned buildings, restoring and redistributing them according to principles of social justice; mapping the city based on alternative parameters, such as revealing venues of collective memory or exposing the city's backyard; creating outdoor urban art galleries; and creating temporary architecture and alternative solutions in order to deal with the challenges we face in times of epidemic and environmental crisis. The art intervention phenomenon has intensified since the mid-1990s, so much so that even local authorities the world over have begun to adopt activist and artistic practices. Due to the intensive urbanization processes and current global threats, the creative trends and means surveyed in the book are crucial. This book will interest researchers, planners, urban planners, architects, social activists, local authority executives, art centers, artists, and designers.

La Provence Christian Freigang, Rolf Toman. 2010 Consacré à l'art, à l'architecture et aux paysages de la Provence, cet ouvrage est une invitation à la découverte des trésors provençaux dans toute leur variété. La lumière, les parfums, l'art de vivre ont participé à la construction du mythe de la Provence. Cet ouvrage nous emmène en un voyage captivant à travers une des plus belles régions d'Europe : depuis Orange et ses sites antiques, Avignon, la Cité des Papes, vers Nîmes et son patrimoine somptueux, puis vers Aix-en-Provence et Marseille, la métropole. Vient ensuite la côte, avec ses superbes plages et calanques, ses édifices de la Belle Époque, sans oublier l'arrière-pays : ses villages typiques, ses champs de lavande et ses paysages ayant inspiré les plus grands artistes.

Visits Alexandre Chemetoff. 2009 The French landscape architect, city planner, and architect Alexandre Chemetoff (b. 1950) achieved international renown for his Jardin de Bambou at the Parc de la Villette in Paris and his design of a park in Villejuif. Visits takes a close-up look at his work of the last fifteen years, not, however, in the form of a traditional monograph. Instead, Chemetoff visits the sites of five of his major works:

Blanquefort/Bordeaux, Ile de Nantes, Angoulême, Vallée de la Bièvre/Paris, Grenoble, Nancy, and Rennes. He is accompanied on his visits by conversation partners who are recognized experts in the field: Dominique Alba, Jean-Louis Cohen, Christophe Girod, Patrick Henry, Alain Léveillé, Sébastien Marot, and Michel Velly. In this way, the principal themes of Chemetoff's creative work come up for discussion in a lively, critical, and fascinating manner. It is especially illuminating to discover how well a given project has stood the test of time, how it has changed over the years, and what Chemetoff would do differently today.

Courbet and the Modern Landscape. 2006 With its fittingly dramatic design, Courbet and the Modern Landscape accompanies the first major museum exhibition specifically to address Gustave Courbet's extraordinary achievement in landscape painting. Many of these carefully selected works produced from 1855 to 1876—gathered from Asia, Europe, and North America—will be new to readers. The catalogue—which accompanies an exhibition at the Getty Museum to be held from February 21 to May 14, 2006—highlights the artist's expressive responses to the natural environment. Essays by the curators examine Courbet's distinctly modern practice of landscape painting. Mary Morton's essay situates his landscapes in relation to his work in other genres, his critical reputation, and his role in establishing a new pictorial language for landscape painting. Charlotte Eyerman's essay investigates how later generations of nineteenth- and twentieth-century artists responded to Courbet's example. The catalogue also includes an essay by Dominique de Font-Reaulx, curator of photographs at the Musée d'Orsay, on the relationship between Courbet's work and landscape photography of the 1850s and 1860s. Maison Blanche Klaus Spechtenhauser,Arthur Rüegg.2007 The villa known as Maison Blanche is one of Le Corbusier's early masterworks. He created this complete work of architecture, landscape architecture, and interior design art for his parents. At first glance it may seem to stand in the classicist tradition, but its details already divulge the beginnings of Le Corbusier's personal architectural language. After standing empty for years, the building was purchased by a specially formed association, which established an interdisciplinary commission to oversee its restoration by the architect Pierre Minder. As the house was freed from later changes and additions and the garden returned to its original condition, the young Le Corbusier's intellectual workshop gradually came into view. The practicability of these measures was carefully determined with a feasibility study conducted on the basis of reports and archival studies. Together with the discoveries made during construction, new color photographs, and the precise reconstruction plans, this material now serves as the basis for this magnificent monograph.

"Landscape, Art and Identity in 1950s Britain " Catherine Jolivette.2017-07-05 During the years following World War II debates about the British landscape fused with questions of national identity as the country reconstructed its sense of self. For better or for worse artists, statesmen, and ordinary citizens saw themselves reflected in the landscape, and in turn helped to shape the way that others envisioned the land. While landscape art is frequently imagined in terms of painting, this book examines the role of landscape in terms of a broader definition of visual culture to include the discussion not only of works of oil on canvas, but also prints, sculpture, photography, advertising, fashion journalism, artists' biographies, and the multi-media stage of the national exhibition. Making extensive use of archival materials (newspaper reviews, radio broadcasts, interviews with artists, letters and exhibition planning documents), Catherine Jolivette explores the intersection of landscape art with a variety of discourses including the role of women in contemporary society, the status of immigrant artists in Britain, developments in science and technology, and the promotion of British art and culture abroad.

Art and Architecture in France, 1500-1700 Anthony Blunt,Richard Beresford.1999-01-01 The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in France were an epoch of spectacular artistic activity, exemplified by the chateaux of the Loire valley, the palace of Versailles, the paintings of Poussin and Claude, and the sculpture of Coysevox, which echo the political and cultural importance of France and the Sun King. Anthony Blunt presents major artists and their principal works chronologically, provides an overview of the main projects of the period and of the artistic personalities behind them, and clearly sets the historical context. This new edition, of one of the classics of the Pelican History of Art series, has been revised and updated with color illustrations and a new bibliography.

Regions and Landscapes Peter F. Ainsworth,Tom Scott.2000 The present volume brings together European and American scholars from a range of complementary disciplines (cartographers, economic and social historians, historians of social and political institutions, economic geographers, historians of art and textual analysts), all of whom are interested in exploring potential interconnections between their respective approaches to the study of regions and landscapes, 'real' or imagined, in the early modern and medieval periods.Focusing on the Rhineland and Low Countries, the essays offer a collective, interdisciplinary approach which aims to shed light on at least some of the complexities underlying any attempt to analyse what we might understand by landscape or region in a particular historical context.

Contemporary Art About Architecture Nora Wendl.2017-07-05 An important resource for scholars of contemporary art and architecture, this volume considers contemporary art that takes architecture as its subject. Concentrated on works made since 1990, Contemporary Art About Architecture: A Strange Utility is the first to take up this topic in a sustained and explicit manner and the first to advance the idea that contemporary art functions as a form of architectural history, theory, and analysis. Over the course of fourteen essays by both emerging and established scholars, this volume examines a diverse group of artists in conjunction with the vernacular, canonical, and fantastical structures engaged by their work. I? Manglano-Ovalle, Matthew Barney, Monika Sosnowska, Pipo Nguyen-duy, and Paul Pfeiffer are among those considered, as are the compelling questions of architecture's relationship to photography, the evolving legacy of Mies van der Rohe, the notion of an architectural unconscious, and the provocative concepts of the unbuilt and the unbuildable. Through a rigorous investigation of these issues, Contemporary Art About Architecture calls attention to the fact that art is now a vital form of architectural discourse. Indeed, this phenomenon is both pervasive and, in its individual incarnations, compelling - a reason to think again about the entangled histories of architecture and art.

Toward an Urban Ecology Kate Orff. 2016-07-12 Kate Orff, 2017 MacArthur Fellow, has an optimistic and transformative message about our world: we can bring together social and ecological systems to sustainably remake our cities and landscapes. Part monograph, part manual, part manifesto, Toward an Urban Ecology reconceives urban landscape design as a form of activism, demonstrating how to move beyond familiar and increasingly outmoded ways of thinking about environmental, urban, and social issues as separate domains; and advocating for the synthesis of practice to create a truly urban ecology. In purely practical terms, SCAPE has already generated numerous tools and techniques that designers, policy makers, and communities can use to address some of the most pressing issues of our time, including the loss of biodiversity, the loss of social cohesion, and ecological degradation. Toward an Urban Ecology features numerous projects and select research from SCAPE, and conveys a range of strategies to engender a more resilient and inclusive built environment.
