A History of Dolls' Houses Flora Gill Jacobs. 1965 The fascination with miniature objects continues to grow. One of the most popular forms of life in miniature throughout the ages has been the doll's house, which appeals to a great variety of people, including architects, collectors, children, historians, and antiquarians. A doll's house is a miniature representation of its place and time, and this fascinating account of dolls' houses and miniature furnishings covers four centuries and many countries: Holland, Germany, France, England, the United States. Additional information on examples of Scandinavian, Italian, Swiss, and Japanese houses is provided. World famous dolls' houses described at length include Queen Mary's doll house, complete in every detail down to miniature bottles of real champagne in the wine cellar; Colleen Moore's spectacular castle with its diamond chandelier and gold (monogrammed!) forks and knives; Titania's Palace which has been called a museum-in-little of Italian art; the Stettheimer doll house with its unique art gallery of miniature originals by famous modern artists. - Back cover.

Taste and Power Leora Auslander.2023-04-28 Louis XIV, regency, rococo, neoclassical, empire, art nouveau, and historicist pastiche: furniture styles march across French history as regimes rise and fall. In this extraordinary social history, Leora Auslander explores the changing meaning of furniture from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth century, revealing how the aesthetics of everyday life were as integral to political events as to economic and social transformations. Enriched by Auslander's experience as a cabinetmaker, this work demonstrates how furniture served to represent and even generate its makers' and consumers' identities.

Miniature and the English Imagination Melinda Alliker Rabb. 2019-02-14 Focusing on the phenomenon of miniaturization in material culture, literature, and theories of cognition, this study examines the appeal and function of the small-scale during the period from 1650 to 1765. Drawing on three interconnected areas of scholarship, Melinda Alliker Rabb analyzes the human capacity to supplement direct experience of the world through representation, in order to gain knowledge of that world and to attempt control over it. Assessing two kinds of miniature - the real and the imagined - allows rethinking of works by Swift, Pope, Gay, Johnson, Sterne, and others, and shows how the fictional miniature can correspond meaningfully to the world of things. The phenomenon of scaling down objects as various as teapots, bureaus, globes, buckets, spoons, battlefields, and diving bells, has a relationship to large-scale events as various as financial revolution, globalization, scientific discovery, war and other events that challenge old modes of representation and demand new ones.

The Pistner House Patricia Pistner.2001-01-01 The Pistner House's spellbinding beauty and precision brings to life the culture and history of an elegant era. After years of study, Patricia Pistner commissioned this architectural model to express her love of 18th-century French design. Ten years in the making, the house, rooms and furnishings represent some of the finest examples of the Louis VIV through Louis XVI periods. Utilizing the standardized scale of one-inch to one-foot, more than 60 of the world's finest artists were required to render in exacting detail some of the most important pieces of 18th-century French furniture and accessories. The Pistner House has drawn international acclaim since it went on display in November 2000 as part of the Masters of Miniature exhibit at the Naples Museum of Art. The NY Times reviewer reported that . . . the revelation of the museum was the miniature rooms. They are the best I have ever seen, and I know my miniature rooms. This book offers the reader the rare opportunity to explore and understand the extraordinary beauty of The Pistner House and other features of the Masters of Miniature exhibit, as captured in exquisite detail in the more than 100 color illustrations.
