They learn to pack themselves, and what questions to ask about how your family will get there, where you'll stay, how you'll travel in the region, and what you'll do together! What to pack What will we need to navigate London when we get there? How do we get to London? Who did we meet and what jobs did they have? What did I like, not like so much? What are my top 5 places I visited in London? Keeping kids busy when there isn't any action is important too. While this book is one big activity, there's even a little coloring section at the end. Communicating Specialized Knowledge Marina Bondi,Silvia Cacchiani,Silvia Cavalieri.2019-06-13 This book was born out of the idea that domain-specific knowledge has two major dimensions, since, on the one hand, peer-to-peer communication is primarily intended to further research within specific disciplines, while, on the other, domain-external, asymmetric communication of 'filtered' knowledge caters to different types of lay-audiences. Collectively, the chapters in the volume take the reader on a journey through knowledge communication and knowledge (re)presentation strategies that are able to successfully disseminate and communicate. The domains under scrutiny are medicine and health, corporate communication, cultural heritage and tourism. A number of issues are addressed at the interface of corpus linguistics, genre studies and multimodal analysis. The variety of questions posed and methods used to explore corpus data will contribute to further debate among scholars in applied linguistics, sociolinguistics, multimodality, media studies and computer-mediated communication.
