Eighty-Third Annual Report of the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 1964 North Carolina Board of Pharmacy.2018-10-02 Excerpt from Eighty-Third Annual Report of the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 1964: Also List Registered Pharmacists, Registered Assistants Pharmacists, Physicians Holding Permits to Conduct Drug Stores, Registered Drug Stores We are now only in the midst of this project, and it is far from being completed. The Board is encouraged, however, at the progress that has been made to this point, and it is deeply indebted to Mr. Forbus for his efforts. There is one aspect of this pro gram that is as yet not fully developed, and that is the matter of pharmacist personnel. Obviously, there are many hospitals that will not be able to employ pharmacists, and could not utilize them fully if they were available. This will mean that a considerable number of these positions will have to be filled on a part-time basis by the community prae titioners. Some hospitals will require the services of a pharmacist as little as a few hours per week. Others, of course, will 'require more. Regardless of the time requirement, it will be necessary to find the personnel willing to perform this professional function. It is, therefore, the professional and, yes, legal duty of each pharmacist in the state to make his services available wherever they are needed, when this is possible. Following the completion of this program, its implemen tation must be orderly and, thus, will doubt less not be as rapid as some might like. Olle thing is certain, for the program to be a. Success, it must have the cooperation of the pharmacists. The public health and safety, and his own professional self-interest, demand that he give this cooperation. TECHNOLOGY IN MENTAL HEALTH Stephen Goss,Kate Anthony,LoriAnne Sykes Stretch,DeeAnna Merz Nagel.2016-07-01 In the half-decade since publication of the first edition, there have been significant changes in society brought about by the exploding rise of technology in everyday lives that also have an impact on our mental health. The most important of these has been the shift in the way human interaction itself is conducted, especially with electronic text-based exchanges. This expanded second edition is an extensive body of work. It contains 39 chapters on different aspects of technological innovation in mental health care from 54 expert contributors from all over the globe, appropriate for a subject that holds such promise for a worldwide clientele and that applies to professionals in every country. The book is now presented in two clear sections, the first addressing the technologies as they apply to being used within counseling and psychotherapy itself, and the second section applying to training and supervision. Each chapter offers an introduction to the technology and discussion of its application to the therapeutic intervention being discussed, in each case brought to life through vivid case material that shows its use in practice. Chapters also contain an examination of the ethical implications and cautions of the possibilities these technologies offer, now and in the future. While the question once was, should technology be used in the delivery of mental health services, the question now is how to best use technology, with whom, and when. Whether one has been a therapist for a long time, is a student, or is simply new to the field, this text will serve as an important and integral tool for better understanding the psychological struggles of one's clients and the impact that technology will have on one's practice. Psychotherapists, psychiatrists, counselors, social workers, nurses, and, in fact, every professional in the field of mental health care can make use of the exciting opportunities technology presents.

In the main, these efforts have been directed largely toward persons who are not pharmacists, but who are entering the field of pharmacy and the Operation of drug stores without giving proper thought to the provisions necessary to render proper pharmaceutical service. In order, therefore, to compare our appraisal with that of an objective observer, it is interesting to study some of the results of the Pharmaceutical Survey which has just been conducted by the American Council on Education. As is well known, this survey covered a period of two years and was under the direction of Dr. Edward C. Elliott, former President of Purdue University, and a man of wide experience in survey work. From the figures released in the preliminary report, it is found that North Carolina has the lowest number of pharmacists per hundred thousand population of any state in the Union. It further reveals that our State has next to the highest number of population per pharmacy outlet of any state in the Union. Comparing pharmacists to pharmacy outlets, we will find again that North Carolina has the lowest ratio of pharmacists to pharmacy outlets of any state in the Union, that ratio being pharmacists per outlet. These are significant figures, and their import should be of great concern to every pharmacist in the State and to every drug store proprietor, as well as to the public in general. One-Hundred-Sixth Annual Report, North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 1987 (Classic Reprint) North Carolina Board of Pharmacy.2019-01-11 Excerpt from One-Hundred-Sixth Annual Report, North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 1987 The North Carolina Board of Pharmacy has the gravest concern regarding the problem of the impaired pharmacist. The Board feels that steps should be taken. To provide counselling, professional advice, as well as guidance and information for pharmacists with drug and alcohol problems. It is axiomatic to any type of treatment or informational program that the anonymity of the individuals seeking assistance be maintained. Dealing with this problem is not a responsibility of the Board of Pharmacy. The Board can only consider the impaired pharmacist on a case by case basis when there has been an alleged violation of law or regulation. The Board feels that this is an appropriate problem for the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association. It notes that other professional associations provide a mechanism for rendering assistance to its members. The Board, on the other hand, is confronted with the impaired pharmacist who is alleged to have violated a law or regulation. Assuming that the competent evidence introduced at the hearing satisfies the Board that the pharmacist is guilty as charged, there are a number of factors which the Board may consider in reaching a decision. The Board feels that the pharmacy profession and the general public are entitled to know what those general factors are and why the Board considers them to be significant in reaching a decision in an individual case. Seventy-Third Annual Report of the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 1954 North Carolina Board of Pharmacy.2018-03-18 Excerpt from Seventy-Third Annual Report of the North Carolina Board of Pharmacy, 1954: Also List Registered Pharmacists, Registered Assistant Pharmacists, Physicians Holding Permits to Conduct Drug Stores, Registered Drug Stores The number of prescriptions filled during the year remained constant with that of last year. 718 stores reported filling in 1953. This was an average of per store. If this figure is projected for 914 stores we get a total of which is proportionally identical with the figure obtained last year. The fact that 'the number of prescriptions did not decrease for the year immediately past is significant in view of the fact that it has been reported that there has been a recession of varying degrees in the other business of the drug stores. This seems to indicate that some of our pharmacists have been wise to improve their facilities for handling prescriptions and to serve notice to others that they should do so. It's also worth noting that although Wikibooks' editors are sharp-eyed, some less scrupulous contributors may plagiarize copyright-protected work by other authors. Some recipes, for example, appear to be paraphrased from well-known chefs. Consider signing up to the free Centsless Books email newsletter to receive update notices for newly free ebooks and giveaways. The newsletter is only sent out on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, so it won't spam you too much. It's easy to search Wikibooks by topic, and there are separate sections for recipes and children's textbooks. You can download any page as a PDF using a link provided in the left-hand menu, but unfortunately there's no support for other formats. There's also Collection Creator - a handy tool that lets you collate several pages, organize them, and export them together (again, in PDF format). It's a nice feature that enables you to customize your reading material, but it's a bit of a hassle, and is really designed for readers who want printouts. The easiest way to read Wikibooks is simply to open them in your web browser. A keyword search for book titles, authors, or quotes. We also love the fact that all the site's genres are presented on the homepage, so you don't have to waste time trawling through menus. Unlike the bigger stores, Free-Ebooks.net also lets you sort results by publication date, popularity, or rating, helping you avoid the weaker titles that will inevitably find their
