Authorama is a very simple site to use. You can scroll down the list of alphabetically arranged authors on the front page, or check out the list of Latest Additions at the top. It's easy to search

Wikibooks by topic, and there are separate sections for recipes and childrens' textbooks. You can download any page as a PDF using a link provided in the left-hand menu, but unfortunately there's no support for other formats. There's also Collection Creator - a handy tool that lets you collate several pages, organize them, and export them together (again, in PDF format). It's a nice feature that enables you to customize your reading material, but it's a bit of a hassle, and is really designed for readers who want printouts. The easiest way to read Wikibooks is simply to open them in your web browser. Ebooks on Google Play Books are only available as EPUB or PDF files, so if you own a Kindle you'll need to convert them to MOBI format before you can start reading. FullBooks.com: organized alphabetically; there are a TON of books here. Bartleby eBooks: a huge array of classic literature, all available for free download. Since it's a search engine, browsing for books is almost impossible. The closest thing you can do is use the Authors dropdown in the navigation bar to browse by authors—and even then, you'll have to get used to the terrible user interface of the site overall. Open Culture is best suited for students who are looking for eBooks related to their course. The site offers more than 800 free eBooks for students and it also features the classic fiction books by famous authors like, William Shakespear, Stefen Zwaig, etc. that gives them an edge on literature.
