Occupational health and safety strategy for sawmilling industries in Uganda Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations.2021-07-26 Downstream log processing is poorly developed in Uganda, mainly dominated by many small-scale informal sawmills. Timber processing can be a hazardous occupation, with hazards from the use of machinery, handling heavy materials, working at heights and exposure to dust, noise and chemicals, potentially harmful events can happen at any time. Such occupational health risks are expected to be higher in developing countries than in the industrialized countries, mainly due to socioeconomic and political differences. Small-scale sawmillers are usually mainly focused on remaining profitable, and other considerations, such as safety, are not high priority. This report provides expert advice and technical assistance to support forestry officials, sawmill managers and supervisors to acquire skills and knowledge in downstream processing and utilization. It features elements such as hazard identification exercises for wood processing industries in Uganda and identifying hazard reduction measures in wood processing industries. The report focusses on the development of an occupational health and safety strategy for downstream processing in Uganda, with a specific focus on pine sawmilling, as per the focus of the SPGS programme.

This checklist was developed as an aid for assessing a construction worksite's compliance with OSHA's 29 CFR, Part 1926, Safety and Health Regulations for Construction.This list is organized in groups of questions that follow the same nomenclature and order of the subparts of Part 1926. These questions are formulated in full sentences, closely mimicking the original text of the regulations, and each one includes its precise citation in the same regulations. This checklist touches on fundamental requirements and is not inclusive of all safety and health requirements for employers in the construction industry. However, in most situations it will not be necessary to use a safety inspection checklist as comprehensive as this one. This document is intended to be taken as a starting point to be tailored to fit the needs of specific inspections; more often by ignoring unnecessary subparts and questions. It closes with OSHA Most Frequently Cited Serious Violations Construction Industry FY 2020.
