30 Tips to Keep Your Home Safer Duane Bishop.2017-02-19 To help to keep you and your family safer in your home, you must not only read this book, you must implement the tips. Burglars are extremely lazy. They will always take the path of least resistance, meaning that if you take NO measures to protect your home, burglars will love you forever. Burglars scope out houses to burglarize constantly. They look for easiest target to fund their habits. Many burglars have drug habits and cannot maintain a job. Therefore, they steal from your home to fund their habit. In this book I have suggested tips for you to make your home safer and less likely to be burglarized. Residential burglaries in this country occur approximately every 15 seconds and most residential burglaries occur during daylight hours. The arrest rate of residential burglars is under 13 percent.

The tips that I have provided in this book will lessen the odds of your home being burglarized. This book will also /is published in large print and on Kindle.

Home Security Calvin Beckford, Heather Alston. 2005 Home security is an essential part of owning a home. We all need to feel safe while we're at home as well as confident when we go out that burglars cannot get in. However, many homes are surprisingly easy to break into and in many cases burglars don't even have to use force. There is a huge amount that householders could do to keep their homes secure. This highly informative and practical book shows you how to protect your home and possessions without having to spend a fortune on elaborate security systems. The book starts with a chapter on what makes crime happen and the principles of crime prevention. The chapters that follow deal with boundaries, access, door and window security, garden security, lighting for both house and garden and electronic systems. A chapter on defensive plants explains how planting a dense, thorny hedge is a good way to deter intruders.

Home Burglary and Car Theft Protection Hacks Life 'n' Hack. 2017-04-26 Unlock The Keys To Protect And Prevent Home And Car From Robbery No one thinks it will ever happen to them: robbery. Most people say that they will never be robbed because they live in a good neighborhood or a decent town. They may think that always locking their doors or cars will prevent them from being a victim. The truth, however, is that over 10% of the population is a victim of home burglary or car theft every year! When it happens, people are often too stunned to react properly. They panic or freeze. Even after the theft, people often feel vulnerable and powerless and that often affects them for years to come. Would you know what to do if suddenly faced with a robbery? Would you be well-equipped to handle or prevent a burglary? Would you be able to protect your family during an actual home invasion? Do you even know what steps should be taken before and after theft? If you have any

Home Security Tips James Smith.2012-01-08 All homes today contain items that we feel are extremely valuable to us, and so it seems only sensible that we should ensure that our home is well protected against any possible attempts for a person to try and gain access to your home. Is it just me, or do we spend more time worrying about the safety of our computers these days than the safety of our own homes? You've got firewalls and virus protection for your CPU, but have you changed your door locks since you moved into your house? Do you have ladders, tools, and other things lying around your yard that a burglar could use to break a window and access your home? Do you have an alarm system you never arm? Windows you leave open? Doors left unlocked? When was the last time you walked around your house and, thinking like a burglar, considered just how easy it would be to break in? Yeah, that's what I thought. Let's take a look at some smart security tips that can help make your home safer for you and your family. Criminals cost Americans five billion dollars a year and stolen property is often never returned to the owner.

A Burglar's Guide to the City Geoff Manaugh.2016-04-05 The city seen from a unique point of view: those who want to break in and loot its treasures At the heart of Geoff Manaugh's A Burglar's Guide to the City is an unexpected and thrilling insight: the city as seen through the eyes of robbers. From experts on both sides of the law, readers learn to understand the city as an arena of possible tunnels and picked locks—and architecture itself as an obstacle to be outwitted and second-guessed. Never again will readers enter a bank without imagining the vault geometry, or visit a museum without plotting ways to bring their favorite painting home with them. From how to pick locks (and the tools required) to how to case a bank on the edge of town, readers will learn to spot the vulnerabilities, blind spots, and unseen openings that surround us all the time. This simultaneously allows us to view the city—from specific buildings and individual rooms to whole neighborhoods—through the privileged eyes of FBI investigating agents and security consultants, people dedicated both to solving and to preempting these attempts at devious entry. Full of absurd and marvelous stories of heists and capers, and offering a kind of criminal X-ray of the built environment, A Burglar's Guide to the City includes its own twist: the realization, hidden in its final chapter, that all along the book has been laying out the relevant details for plotting the perfect robbery, an ambitious and real proposal for robbing a bank in New York City.

Home Security Joshua Elans.2016-02-21 Every day the newspapers report dozens of robbery and break-in cases. Although modern technology has assisted us to restrict these activities yet the robber's community is also appearing competent enough. The ultimate solution to this problem lies in a proactive strategy so that all of us become readily prepared against any of the robbery or theft attacks. It is only possible when we extend strategic thinking about the home security concerns. In this book the major focus for stating the home security issues is to make the individual household unit capable enough of handling the security issues on its own. If every person starts looking forward to maintaining the security of his or her house then the overall rate of break-ins and burglary can be eventually reduced to a greater level. So in this book we will provide an elaborative discussion for the overall security of homes, dealing with various areas of concern including the interior and exterior area of the house. The contributing discussions and suggestions which are curtailed in this book will present the following leading issues, which are collectively aimed at making the individual household units well equipped with security measures. * The preliminary discussion about the rising level of security concerns, its implementations for our daily routines and major pillars of security systems which can ensure secured houses.* The major strategies for making your home security fool proof with the category related to overall mental preparedness* Some important home security strategies pertaining to the use of proper hardware of the house* An account of strategies for home security applying modern technology
