How I Escaped the Rat Race Calvin Woo .2017-01-07 In life, going against the current is hard. It is a choice many can make, but few do. In How I Escaped the Rat Race, social entrepreneur and youth leader Calvin Woo takes us on his journey in leading a life that creates a positive impact not only upon himself but also upon the broader community. Calvin's firmly held values and ideals was rewarded when, at the age of 21, he was presented with the Queen's Young Leader Award from the U.K., by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, in London. In this book, Calvin explores what it means to escape the rat race and embark upon a journey to leave a positive impact upon the world around you. He believes everyone can create such a legacy of their own and hopes, through this book, to inspire others to forge their own paths in life.

Finding Malaysia Zairil Khir Johari. Some of the most engaging contemporary writing has seen the transformation of the political column into a literary art form - an important way of taking in the world and thinking deeply about it. In his first collection of essays, Zairil Khir Johari offers quick-witted and focused reflections on some of the most pressing and contentious issues of the day. At the heart of the matter is the bane of Malaysian politics - the ethnic question - from which he explores a range of high-profile issues: identity, secularism, federalism, the economy, good governance and education. After sixty years of nationhood, Zairil finds much that is wrong with Malaysia. Its eccentricities are by no means benign. Yet these essays also offer answers to his own assertion that 'we need to move beyond this.' At once both philosophical and practical, Finding Malaysia lays down a marker for any serious debate over the future trajectory of the country.

Secondary School External Examination Systems Barend Vlaardingerbroek,Neil Taylor.2009 Summative assessment has been a contentious issue in educational circles for several decades, particularly high-stakes assessment events which arise at various junctures of the school cycle, especially those at the end of it. The French Baccalaureat and English A-Levels and their numerous clones throughout the francophone and anglophone worlds are household names and represent milestone events in people's lives, as their outcomes are principal determinants of young people's future prospects. These examinations are external--they are devised, conducted and processed by agencies outside the schools, usually ministerial examination units. As such, they act as 'blind' arbiters of student achievement, providing the proverbial 'level playing field' which ensures the comparability of outcomes. In the pyramidal school structures of yesteryear, examinations acted as filters, regulating the progression of pupils to subsequent tiers of formal education. Exit points occurred from primary school level up, from where unsuccessful candidates could enter the labour force and/or embark on occupationally specific further education and training. With the modernisation of the labour market and an ever-higher social demand for access to higher levels of formal education, the filtering function of examinations at lower levels of schooling has been gradually eroded, while burgeoning numbers of students at the upper secondary level have brought about reforms that include curricular diversification and sometimes radical overhauls of terminating assessment systems (including the modification and, in some instances, abandonment of external examinations). This edited volume brings together the experiences of twenty examination systems from around the world to show how these dynamic entities have adapted over time to the changing context of schooling. Following an introduction by Stephen P. Heyneman of World Bank repute, there are sixteen chapters presenting Country Case Studies, which have been written up under common subheadings, thereby highlighting the comparative nature of the work and facilitating cross-referencing. The subsequent four chapters elaborate on the theme of 'external examinations beyond national borders', including a contribution by the International Baccalaureate Organisation. A defining feature of the work is the attention it pays to what it calls the 'nuts and bolts' of external examinations, from question-setting to grading procedures. These are, it is argued, instrumental in nurturing and maintaining public confidence in external examinations. The book will be of immense value to people involved in educational policy studies, especially strategic educational planning, as well as those directly concerned with formal assessment. The work has been written to appeal to a wide audience of informed persons--it is accessible to teachers and interested laypeople, as well as to academics.

Communism and the Dilemmas of National Liberation James Earnest Mace. 1983 Ukrainization originally meant active recruitment of Ukrainians into the Soviet state, but soon Ukrainian communists came to demand far greater self-determination than Moscow would tolerate. Those who made such demands in the 1920s were labelled national deviationists, and the issues they raised engulfed the regime in a major political crisis.
