Flying the Flag H. Dienel, P. Lyth. 1999-01-12 Since the end of World War II, European airlines have revealed their own operational style. By analyzing seven European flag-carriers, Dienel and Lyth provide a comparative study of the airline business, covering government policy, aircraft procurement, network growth, commercial performance and collaboration with other airlines and transport modes. This study also seeks to explain why national flag-carriers have survived in an age of globalization and strategic alliances. A concluding chapter views the contrasting American air transport industry.

A History of Mathematics Luke Hodgkin. 2013-02-21 A History of Mathematics: From Mesopotamia to Modernity covers the evolution of mathematics through time and across the major Eastern and Western civilizations. It begins in Babylon, then describes the trials and tribulations of the Greek mathematicians. The important, and often neglected, influence of both Chinese and Islamic mathematics is covered in detail, placing the description of early Western mathematics in a global context. The book concludes with modern mathematics, covering recent developments such as the advent of the computer, chaos theory, topology, mathematical physics, and the solution of Fermat's Last Theorem. Containing more than 100 illustrations and figures, this text, aimed at advanced undergraduates and postgraduates, addresses the methods and challenges associated with studying the history of mathematics. The reader is introduced to the leading figures in the history of mathematics (including Archimedes, Ptolemy, Qin Jiushao, al-Kashi, al-Khwarizmi, Galileo, Newton, Leibniz, Helmholtz, Hilbert, Alan Turing, and Andrew Wiles) and their fields. An extensive bibliography with cross-references to key texts will provide invaluable resource to students and exercises (with solutions) will stretch the more advanced reader.

Descartes's Mathematical Thought C. Sasaki. 2013-03-09 Covering both the history of mathematics and of philosophy, Descartes's Mathematical Thought reconstructs the intellectual career of Descartes most comprehensively and originally in a global perspective including the history of early modern China and Japan. Especially, it shows what the concept of mathesis universalis meant before and during the period of Descartes and how it influenced the young Descartes. In fact, it was the most fundamental mathematical discipline during the seventeenth century, and for Descartes a key notion which may have led to his novel mathematics of algebraic analysis.

Paleomicrobiology Didier Raoult, Michel Drancourt. 2008-01-24 This fascinating new volume comes complete with color illustrations and features the methodology and main achievements in the emerging field of paleomicrobiology. It's an area research at the intersection of microbiology and evolution, history and anthropology. New molecular approaches have already provided exciting results, such as confirmation of a single biotype of Yersinia pestis as the cause of historical plague pandemics. An absorbing read for scientists in related fields.

Expanding the Lexicon Sabine Arndt-Lappe, Angelika Braun, Claudine Moulin, Esme Winter-Froemel. 2018-01-22 The creation of new lexical units and patterns has been studied in different research frameworks, focusing on either system-internal or system-external aspects, from which no comprehensive view has emerged. The volume aims to fill this gap by studying dynamic processes in the lexicon - understood in a wide sense as not being necessarily limited to the word level - by bringing together approaches directed to morphological productivity as well as approaches analyzing general types of lexical innovation and the role of discourse-related factors. The papers deal with ongoing changes as well as with historical processes of change in different languages and reflect on patterns and specific subtypes of lexical innovation as well as on their external conditions and the speakers' motivations for innovating. Moreover, the diffusion and conventionalization of innovations will be addressed. In this way, the volume contributes to understanding the complex interplay of structural, cognitive and functional factors in the lexicon as a highly dynamic domain.

History in Mathematics Education John Fauvel,J.A. van Maanen.2006-04-11 This ground-breaking book investigates how the learning and teaching of mathematics can be improved through integrating the history of mathematics into all aspects of mathematics education: lessons, homework, texts, lectures, projects, assessment, and curricula. It draws upon evidence from the experience of teachers as well as national curricula, textbooks, teacher education practices, and research perspectives across the world. It includes a 300-item annotated bibliography of recent work in the field in eight languages.

Histoire Géographie Education civique Bac Pro 3 ans Françoise Blanchard,Marc Boulanger,Jacqueline Kermarec,Dominique Le Nuz,Nicole Perrier.2009 Les nouveaux programmes pour la Voie professionnelle introduisent de profonds changements tant en Histoire, avec l'introduction du temps long tout en redonnant sa place à l'événement et au rôle des acteurs, qu'en Géographie en portant l'accent sur le développement durable et en identifiant bien des problèmes majeurs : insécurité alimentaire mondiale, crise énergétique, prise en compte des risques. S'ajoute la dimension de l'Education civique. Ce manuel se veut fidèle à l'esprit des nouveaux programmes et conforme à l'organisation générale en traitant l'intégralité des Sujets d'étude et des Situations en Histoire et en Géographie et en traitant trois thèmes pour l'Education civique. Ce respect de la structure du programme s'accompagne d'indispensables prolongements culturels liés aux domaines des arts. Les chapitres comportent : Une problématique en double page d'ouverture, avec une approche par les documents. Deux grandes photographies, complétées d'une flèche chronologique en Histoire, sont mises en relation ou en opposition. Le cours, sur une double page, réunit des documents diversifiés, accompagnés d'un questionnement guidé. Un texte synthétique apporte une nécessaire contextualisation pour replacer les diverses Situations dans un cadre plus large, historique ou géographique. Chaque Situation est traitée sur une double page, chacune formant une unité pour présenter l'action d'un personnage, une évolution, un événement... ou pour cerner la diversité géographique des modes de production agricole, de gestion de ressources énergétiques... Une page Apprendre Autrement offre une synthèse visuelle du cours pour aider à la mémorisation des notions essentielles. Une page Un regard sur répond à l'orientation du programme en apportant une dimension culturelle interdisciplinaire. Tout en restant dans la thématique de la discipline, elle donne une dimension artistique à travers les époques, susceptible d'offrir une transversalité avec le cours de français.

Studying Peoples in the People's Democracies Vintilă Mihăilescu,Iliia Iliev,Slobodan Naumović.2008 Bulgaria and Serbia during socialism are outlined from many different points of view in this volume. Beyond local and personal trajectories the authors illuminate more general and comparative questions. Was there anything like a socialist anthropology, common to all three countries? Did Soviet and/or Marxist influences, in the discipline and in society in general, penetrate so deeply as to form an unavoidable common denominator of anthropological practice? The answers turn out to be complex and subtle. While unifying ideological forces were very strong in the 1950s, diversity increased thereafter. Anthropology was entangled with national ideology in all three countries, but the evidence nonetheless calls for polyphonic interpretations.

Dressing Modern Frenchwomen Mary Lynn Stewart.2020-03-03 At a glance, high fashion and feminism seem unlikely partners. Between the First and Second World Wars, however, these forces combined femininity and modernity to create the new, modern French woman. In this engaging study, Mary Lynn Stewart reveals the fashion industry as an integral part of women's transition into modernity. Analyzing what female columnists in fashion magazines and popular women novelists wrote about the new silhouette, Stewart shows how bourgeois women feminized the more severe, masculine images that elite designers promoted to create a hybrid form of modern that both emancipated women and celebrated their femininity. She delves into the intricacies of marketing the new clothes and the new image to middle-class women and examines the nuts and bolts of a changing industry—including textile production, relationships between suppliers and department stores, and privacy and intellectual property issues surrounding ready-to-wear couture designs. Dressing Modern Frenchwomen draws from thousands of magazine covers, advertisements, fashion columns, and features to uncover and untangle the fascinating relationships among the fashion industry, the development of modern marketing techniques, and the evolution of the modern woman as active, mobile, and liberated.

The Tradition of Science Leonard C. Bruno.1987 Any real understanding of where we stand scientifically today and where we are headed depends to a great extent on an awareness of how we reached those scientific achievements. The increased impact of science and technology on our lives makes such an understanding even more important. For this reason, this book is intended to provide information about the major works of science in the collections of the Library of Congress. These selected works are organized here by traditional scientific discipline and are treated in historical and, generally, chronological order. The contents contain chapters on: (1) astronomy; (2) botany; (3) zoology; (4) medicine; (5) chemistry; (6) geology; (7) mathematics; and (8) physics. A bibliography provides information about particular Library of Congress collections to which a book or manuscript may belong, as well as specific bibliographic information. Title translations are also included. (TW)

Histoire Géographie et éducation civique Laurent Blanès, Jacques Michelin. 2009-05-06 Ce cahier d'activité répond à l'approche des nouveaux programmes d'histoire-géographie et d'éducation civique du baccalauréat professionnel (B.O. spécial n°2 du 19 février 2009). Histoire géographie : chacun des 8 sujets d'étude est traité à travers un dossier de 16 pages qui aborde l'ensemble des situations historiques et géographiques proposées par le programme, afin d'offrir à chacun toutes les ressources pour organiser son projet annuel. Une double page permet d'abord de découvrir les enjeux de chaque sujet d'étude et de réactiver les acquis des élèves à partir d'activités variées. Chacune des trois situations historiques ou géographiques, correspondant à un même sujet d'étude, est ensuite traitée en quatre pages. Chaque situation est d'abord présentée, avant d'être mise en perspective dans un Grand Angle. Pour clôturer chaque sujet d'étude, une page récapitule l'Essentiel des connaissances et du vocabulaire à maîtriser puis une dernière page Art et culture propose un prolongement littéraire ou artistique. Éducation civique : toujours pour offrir la possibilité à chacun de faire les choix auxquels invite le programme, le thème obligatoire annuel donne d'abord lieu à l'étude de deux sujets, puis chacun des 3 thèmes au choix est abordé à travers un sujet particulièrement significatif. Chaque sujet est traité dans une double page qui propose d'interroger les principes et les pratiques de la citoyenneté et donne lieu à un court bilan argumenté.

Landscapes and Societies I. Peter Martini, Ward Chesworth. 2010-11-09 This book contains case histories intended to show how societies and landscapes interact. The range of interest stretches from the small groups of the earliest Neolithic, through Bronze and Iron Age civilizations, to modern nation states. The coexistence is, of its very nature reciprocal, resulting in changes in both society and landscape. In some instances the adaptations may be judged successful in terms of human needs, but failure is common and even the successful cases are ephemeral when judged in the light of history. Comparisons and contrasts between the various cases can be made at various scales from global through inter-regional, to regional and smaller scales. At the global scale, all societies deal with major problems of climate change, sea-level rise, and with ubiquitous problems such as soil erosion and landscape degradation. Inter-regional differences bring out significant detail with one region suffering from drought when another suffers from widespread flooding. For example, desertification in North Africa and the Near East contrasts with the temperate countries of southern Europe where the landscape-effects of deforestation are more obvious. And China and Japan offer an interesting comparison from the standpoint of geological hazards to society - large, unpredictable and massively erosive rivers in the former case, volcanoes and accompanying earthquakes in the latter. Within the North African region localized climatic changes led to abandonment of some desertified areas with successful adjustments in others, with the ultimate evolution into the formative civilization of Egypt, the Gift of the Nile. At a smaller scale it is instructive to compare the city-states of the Medieval and early Renaissance times that developed in the watershed of a single river, the Arno in Tuscany, and how Pisa, Siena and Florence developed and reached their golden periods at different times depending on their location with regard to proximity to the sea, to the main trunk of the river, or in the adjacent hills. Also noteworthy is the role of technology in opening up opportunities for a society. Consider the Netherlands and how its history has been formed by the technical problem of a populous society dealing with too much water, as an inexorably rising sea threatens their landscape; or the case of communities in Colorado trying to deal with too little water for farmers and domestic users, by bringing their supply over a mountain chain. These and others cases included in the book, provide evidence of the successes, near misses and outright failures that mark our ongoing relationship with landscape throughout the history of Homo sapiens. The hope is that compilations such as this will lead to a better understanding of the issue and provide us with knowledge valuable in planning a sustainable modus vivendi between humanity and landscape for as long as possible. Audience: The book will interest geomorphologists, geologists, geographers, archaeologists, anthropologists, ecologists, environmentalists, historians and others in the academic world. Practically, planners and managers interested in landscape/environmental conditions will find interest in these pages, and more generally the increasingly large body of opinion in the general public, with concerns about Planet Earth, will find much to inform their opinions. Mathematical Problem Solving ALAN H. SCHOENFELD. 2014-06-28 This book is addressed to people with research interests in the nature of mathematical thinking at any level, to people with an interest in higher-order thinking skills in any domain, and to all mathematics teachers. The focal point of the book is a framework for the analysis of complex problem-solving behavior. That framework is presented in Part One, which consists of Chapters 1 through 5. It describes four qualitatively different aspects of complex intellectual activity: cognitive resources, the body of facts and procedures at one's disposal; heuristics, rules of thumb for making progress in difficult situations; control, having to do with the efficiency with which individuals utilize the knowledge at their disposal; and belief systems, one's perspectives regarding the nature of a discipline and how one goes about working in it. Part Two of the book, consisting of Chapters 6 through 10, presents a series of empirical studies that flesh out the analytical framework. These studies document the ways that competent problem solvers make the most of the knowledge at their disposal. They include observations of students, indicating some typical roadblocks to success. Data taken from students before and after a series of intensive problem-solving courses document the kinds of learning that can result from carefully designed instruction. Finally, observations made in typical high school classrooms serve to indicate some of the sources of students' (often counterproductive) mathematical behavior.

Modern Architecture in Africa Antoni S. Folkers, Belinda A. C. van Buiten. 2019-07-22 This book offers unique insights into modern African architecture, influenced by modern European architecture, and at the same time a natural successor to existing site-specific and traditional architecture. It brings together the worlds of traditional site-specific architecture with the Modernist Project in Africa, which to date have only been considered in isolation. The book covers the four architectural disciplines: urban planning, building technology, building physics, and conservation. It includes an introduction with a historical outline and an analysis and comparison of a number of projects in various countries in Africa. On the basis of examples drawn from practice, the author documents and describes the hybrid architectural forms that have emerged from the confrontation and fusion with (pre)modern Western architecture and urban planning, and in so doing he also narrates the history of African architecture.
