African History: A Very Short Introduction John Parker,Richard (Honorary Professor of History Rathbone, University of Aberystwyth),Richard Rathbone.2007-03-22 Intended for those interested in the African continent and the diversity of human history, this work looks at Africa's past and reflects on the changing ways it has been imagined and represented. It illustrates key themes in modern thinking about Africa's history with a range of historical examples.

The City in the Islamic World, Volume 94/1 & 94/2 Salma K. Jayyusi, Renata Holod, Attilio Petruccioli, Andre Raymond. 2008 The purpose of this book is to draw attention to the sites of life, politics and culture where current and past generations of the Islamic world have made their mark. Unlike many previous volumes dealing with the city in the Islamic world, this one has been expanded not only to include snapshots of historical fabric, but also to deal with the transformation of this fabric into modern and contemporary urban entities. Salma Khadra Jayyusi was awarded Cultural Personality of the Year by the Sheikh Zayed Book Award for her profound contribution to Arabic literature and culture in 2020. The paperback edition of The City in the Islamic World was published to celebrate the occasion.

General History of Africa International Scientific Committee for the drafting of a General History of Africa. 1984-12-31 One of UNESCO's most important publishing projects in the last thirty years, the General History of Africa marks a major breakthrough in the recognition of Africa's cultural heritage. Offering an internal perspective of Africa, the eight-volume work provides a comprehensive approach to the history of ideas, civilizations, societies and institutions of African history. The volumes also discuss historical relationships among Africans as well as multilateral interactions with other cultures and continents.

Black Africa 1945-1980 D K Fieldhouse. 2012-08-21 In what ways did economic considerations affect the decision by Britain and France to make their Black African colonies independent? Why were early expectations that independence would lead to rapid and sustained economic development in Africa for the most part disappointed? This title, originally published in 1986, seeks to tackle these two important and strongly debated issues. The main aim and value of the book is to take a broad view of this huge subject, pulling together material on most parts of Black Africa south of the Sahara and north of the Limpopo so that the problem can be seen as a whole. It takes account of a wide range of possible and actual factors which have influenced African economic development, weaving them into a single analysis, including the colonial inheritance, the impact of the fluctuating international economy, policies adopted by African governments and indigenous factors such as climate, drought and human resources. The book is written to be understood without difficulty by non-specialists and is intended to act as an introduction to its subject for university students.

Histoire d'Afrique Jean-Pierre Chrétien, Jean-Louis Triaud. 1999 Avec l'éclatement du rêve d'une histoire mondiale unifiée, le débat sur Histoire et Mémoire est à l'ordre du jour. L'Afrique n'y fait pas exception, mais à sa manière. Cet ouvrage n'est pas une collection de lieux de mémoire relevant d'un patrimoine national dûment authentifié, comme dans le cas français. Il s'agit plutôt d'une illustration de la manière dont les sociétés africaines de jadis et d'aujourd'hui revisitent leur passé : leurs interrogations reflètent moins la nostalgie d'une antiquité en déshérence que les besoins d'une histoire en train de se forger. La fonction sociale de la mémoire dans les traditions orales révèle des dynamiques déjà décelables dans les anciennes remémorations. Le moment de la colonisation sera celui de l'étouffement ou de la domination des legs du passé, allant jusqu'à la récupération ou même à la destruction des lieux où s'accrochaient les identités des peuples soumis. Mais l'aspect le plus intéressant est la façon dont les cultures africaines ont réinterprété leurs traditions selon les normes et les besoins de leur nouvelle expérience historique, confrontée à la domination étrangère : l'africanisme blanc a pénétré les cultures noires, mais celles-ci ont aussi fait de la science du colonisateur un outil de résistance des colonisés. Par delà ces jeux du traditionalisme sous sa forme moderne, on assiste même à des réappropriations des repères plantés par l'Occident et à la participation à sa ferveur commémorative autour de sites monumentaux ou de grandes dates. Tous les exemples font réfléchir sur ces regards croisés et sur ce jeu de réinterprétations du passé africain, confronté à l'ethnographie étrangère. Sans se complaire dans la description de ces représentations, le livre les met en situation historique avec la précision critique nécessaire. C'est aussi un bel exemple d'historiographie de l'Afrique. L'ensemble du continent au sud du Sahara est couvert, reflétant la diversité des climats culturels : du Sénégal à Madagascar, du Zimbabwe au Niger, des Grands Lacs au golfe de Guinée, de l'Afrique du Sud à l'Ethiopie, et des espaces incertains de l'ancien Ghana à l'utopie africaine du cinéma francophone.

Africa from the Sixteenth to the Eighteenth Century Unesco. International Scientific Committee for the Drafting of a General History of Africa.1992 The result of years of work by scholars from all over the world, The UNESCO General History of Africa reflects how the different peoples of Africa view their civilizations and shows the historical relationships between the various parts of the continent. Historical connections with other continents demonstrate Africa's contribution to the development of human civilization. Each volume is lavishly illustrated and contains a comprehensive bibliography. This fifth volume of the acclaimed series covers the history of the continent from the beginning of the sixteenth century to the close of the eighteenth century in which two themes emerge: first, the continuing internal evolution of the states and cultures of Africa during this period second, the increasing involvement of Africa in external trade--with major but unforeseen consequences for the whole world. In North Africa, we see the Ottomans conquer Egypt. South of the Sahara, some of the larger, older states collapse, and new power bases emerge. Traditional religions continue to coexist with both Christianity (suffering setbacks) and Islam (in the ascendancy). Along the coast, particularly of West Africa, Europeans establish a trading network which, with the development of New World plantation agriculture, becomes the focus of the international slave trade. The immediate consequences of this trade for Africa are explored, and it is argued that the long-term global consequences include the foundation of the present world-economy with all its built-in inequalities.

Writing African History John Edward Philips.2006 A comprehensive evaluation of how to read

African history. Writing African History is an essential work for anyone who wants to write, or even seriously read, African history. It will replace Daniel McCall's classic Africa in Time Perspective as the introduction to African history for the next generation and as a reference for professional historians, interested readers, and anyone who wants to understand how African history is written. Africa in Time Perspective was written in the 1960s, when African history was a new field of research. This new book reflects the development of African history since then. It opens with a comprehensive introduction by Daniel McCall, followed by a chapter by the editor explaining what African history is [and is not] in the context of historical theory and the development of historical narrative, the humanities, and social sciences. The first half of the book focuses on sources of historical data while the second half examines different perspectives on history. The editor's final chapter explains how to combine various sorts of evidence into a coherent account of African history. Writing African History will become the most important guide to African history for the 21st century. Contributors: Bala Achi, Isaac Olawale Albert, Diedre L. Badéjo, Dorothea Bedigian, Barbara M. Cooper, Henry John Drewal, Christopher Ehret, Toyin Falola, David Henige, Joseph E. Holloway, John Hunwick, S. O. Y. Keita, William G. Martin, Daniel McCall, Susan Keech McIntosh, Donatien Dibwe Dia Mwembu, Kathleen Sheldon, John Thornton, and Masao Yoshida. An African in Greenland Tété-Michel Kpomassie. 2001-10-31 Tété-Michel Kpomassie was a teenager in Togo when he discovered a book about Greenland—and knew that he must go there. Working his way north over nearly a decade, Kpomassie finally arrived in the country of his dreams.

This brilliantly observed and superbly entertaining record of his adventures among the Inuit is a testament both to the wonderful strangeness of the human species and to the surprising sympathies that bind us all.

International Scientific Committee for the Drafting of a General History of Africa.1990 This volume covers the period from the end of the Neolithic era to the beginning of the seventh century of our era. This lengthy period includes the civilization of Ancient Egypt, the history of Nubia, Ethiopia, North Africa and the Sahara, as well as of the other regions of the continent and its islands.--

Publisher's description

General History of Africa International Scientific Committee for the drafting of a General History of Africa.1981-12-31 Deals with the period beginning at the close of the Neolithic era, from around the eighth millennium before our era. This period of some 9,000 years of history has been subdivided into four major geographical zones, following the pattern of African historical research. Chapters 1 to 12 cover the corridor of the Nile, Egypt and Nubia. Chapters 13 to 16 relate to the Ethiopian highlands. Chapters 17 to 20 describe the part of Africa later called the Maghrib and its Saharan hinterland. Chapters 21 to 29, the rest of Africa as well as some of the islands of the Indian Ocean.--Publisher's description

African Art Maurice Delafosse.2012-05-08 African Art invites you to explore the dynamic origins of the vast artistic expressions arising from the exotic and mystifying African continent. Since the discovery of African art at the end of the nineteenth century during the colonial expositions it has been a limitless source of inspiration for artists who, over time, have perpetually recreated these artworks. The power of Sub-Saharan African art lies within its visual diversity, demonstrating the creativity of the artists who are continuing to conceptualize new stylistic forms. From Mauritania to South Africa and from the Ivory Coast to Somalia, statues, masks, jewelry, pottery and tapestries compose a variety of daily and ritual objects springing from these richly varied societies.
